that it probably was to coordinate state legislation with maybe some Federal, I did make an inquiry into Washington to see what had been introduced in Congress and the best information I can get, the only thing that has been brought forward in Washington is a Study Report and recommendations, but no introduction of any bill at all has been made and I feel a little bit like Senator Anderson that we maybe shouldn't just throw this out the window. We should be mindful of it, but I am questioning whether right now is the time to proceed with this.

SPEAKER: Is there any further discussion? If not, we are ready for Senator DeCamp to close. Is there any further discussion? Does anybody else want to be recognized. Senator DeCamp is closing on his motion to indefinitely postpone.

SENATOR DeCAMP: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee or members of the Legislature, Senator Carstens has brought up an important point. The thing he is talking about occurred in 1970, as I recall the spring of 1970, and it was merely a report, a study, of what they thought was going to develop, and the arguments were used on this bill as have been used on so many other bills and that is, if you don't pass it, even whether you like it or not, the Federal government is going to step in and make you do it tomorrow. I think that on about half of the bills we have in this
